Unite the Resistance Conference The Fight Against Austerity in 2013

10am - 3pm, Saturday 23rd March, Cardiff University

Workers in Britain and across the world are in a life or death struggle as rulers seek to make us pay for the bosses' and bankers' crisis.

Our hope is the resistance we have seen from Athens to Marikana, from Quebec to Madrid. On 14 November 2012 millions of workers in Spain, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Malta and Cyprus struck together – an extraordinary and inspiring example to us. Let's spread that spirit!

After the demonstrations on 20 October last year in London and Glasgow we need to focus the fightback and beat the Tory assault. The TUC passed a resolution at its annual congress in September committing it to consider "the practicalities" of a general strike. Unite the Resistance believes the TUC needs to name the day for a general strike. The calls for coordinated strikes must be made into a reality.

But resistance will also take other forms – in defence of our NHS and education, against the scapegoating of migrant workers, disabled people and the unemployed, and over other issues.

This conference seeks to bring together all the strands of the fightback. It is for everyone – trade unionists, presently unorganised workers, students, campaigners, pensioners, anti-fascists – everyone. Come to the conference to discuss and debate how we need to move forward.
