

Solidarity with RMT strikes to keep the guard on the train

On Saturday 26 January RMT members had notched up 46 days of strikes on Northern Rail against plans to introduce Driver Only Operation. The plans will mean no guards on the train.

It would mean, for example, no assistance for disabled passengers trying to get on the train at an unstaffed station and no assistance to evacuate the train safely in the event of an accident.

The RMT strikers are defending an important aspect of safe train travel that many of us perhaps take for granted. We should all support these important strikes, because if we don't that assistance won't be there when we need it most.
